"The turnaround for 24-6 FSU has been egregiously overlooked. Check this note from the ACC: There have been 163 teams in the conference's history to start 1-4 or 0-5 in league play. FSU (now 12-5 in the ACC) is only the fourth team to ever rally from that to finish above .500. It's currently in fourth place in the standings."

Beyond The Rim
By Kristen Smith
Florida State Sports Information

Christ Koumadje, Senior Center

"I grew up in a big family, but I really learned a lot from my mom. My mom is the person who understands me the most out of anyone in the world. I can call her at any time. We have this special connection."

M.J. Walker, Sophomore Guard

"One day, I could see myself being a coach. I like seeing people reach their potential and even exceeding their potential and doing better than they thought they could. I really just like helping others. We do a lot of community service as a team and one of my favorite opportunities would have to have been the hospital visit. We went to a local hospital here in Tallahassee and were able to go and talk to a couple of kids. It was an emotional but really good experience. There was one kid who had an accident while he was playing that paralyzed his whole body. You could see in his face that he was just a little kid being a kid yesterday and now he can't move."

Redshirt Sophomore RaiQuan Gray

"I'm the youngest, I'm not the baby. I have an older sister who's 25 and an older brother who's 22. Growing up, they would pick on me and stuff, of course ... my sister even told me that I was adopted one time just to make me cry, but I love being around my family. I learned a lot from my siblings. My sister started doing hair when she was 15-years-old and she really just taught me how to work for anything that I wanted. My brother knew how to cook, drive, and a bunch of other stuff at a young age so I learned all those things from him. I guess you could say I'm just a family oriented guy."

Junior Guard Trent Forrest

"One of my favorite bible verses is Luke 12:48, 'To whom much has been given, much will be required.' It's just a reminder that no matter what is thrown your way, no matter the situation, you can handle it. Even with leading a basketball team – there are going to be a lot of things that are thrown your way but you just have to accept it and know that you have the ability to get through it."

Mfiondu Kabengele, RS Sophomore Center

"A lot of people know my uncle, Dikembe Mutombo, as a philanthropist. One of the things he instilled in me growing up was to always help other people. One memory that stands out to me was during the holiday season. I had gone to my uncle's house for Thanksgiving and he was having his annual dinner feeding the homeless and less fortunate. I really admired him for this because as a guy who could easily have a lavish dinner just for himself and his family, he decided to go back to the convention center, invited me and the rest of the family to help feed families, help them get jobs, haircuts and so much more – I was always surrounded by this. He always says that helping others is the most important thing because we were so blessed."

Quoting Florida State Men's Basketball

"Well the fact that you say program is the very first compliment. They have a program here. They don't have a team. The program is built on values, and Leonard (Hamilton) is one of the top coaches in America. His teams are always together, they play hard defense, they are unselfish, and they're talented. We've had hellacious games with him and they're going to be a factor in this, in our conference and nationally. They're too good and that's the type of teams he produces. He and I are really good friends and I admire what he's done here and the manner in which he does it. They're good kids."

Mike Krzyzewski
Duke Basketball

"Regardless how far they (Florida State) go in March Madness, one characteristic of his teams are the kids respect him and they play hard. That doesn't mean their shots are going to go in and they're going to win the ACC or they're even going to qualify for the tournament. But when you watch Leonard Hamilton's teams play, they play with discipline, they play hard and they respect their coach."

Sam Bowie
Kentucky Basketball

"Florida State is really, really, really good. They're physical and did a good job of taking us out of our offense and forcing us into either committing turnovers or taking tough shots. Defensively, the numbers are horrific for what we usually do. They're really, really good from all positions, and they just keep running guys at you."

Travis Ford
Head Coach, Saint Louis

"When I think of Florida State, I think of 10 deep. When I think of Florida State, I think of Terance Mann, at 6-7 a point guard that can see over the defense. When I think of Florida State, I think of a relentless offensive rebounding team. I think of Phil Cofer coming back and getting healthy, giving them a versatile front-court player."

Seth Greenberg
ESPN

"I have never seen Florida State this connected before. It is amazing how well this team plays amongst each other and it shows."

Matthew Driscoll
Head Coach, North Florida

"25 is a beast. A beast. And he (Mfiondu Kabengele) is from the old school. He ain't from the new school. And praise God he ain't listening to anybody and praise God he doesn't get caught up in all that minutiae on Twitter and all that. Because he is old school. I told him after the game, 'If you stay this way, you are going to make as much as you ever want to make. If you stay and do what you do.'"

Matt Driscoll
Head Coach, North Florida

Gospel Music Aside, Hamilton's FSU Hoops Team Also In Harmony

By Gene Frenette
Florida Times Union
March 2, 2019

TALLAHASSEE – The sixth-longest tenured Division I basketball coach among Power 6 conference schools has no real hobbies. He's not an exercise freak, doesn't fish or play golf, though a set of never-used clubs has sat untouched in his garage for about 20 years.

Other than his 49-year marriage to wife Claudette, the love connection with his two adult children, and a 24/7 commitment to Florida State's hoops program for the past 17 seasons, Leonard Hamilton has just one passion: gospel music.

Growing up in Gastonia, N.C., his house was an easy wedge from Mount Zion Baptist Church. Deep inside the 70-year-old Hamilton, he still feeds the impact from the sounds inside that church to this day.

"I grew up in the church. When the organist played or a soloist performed, I could hear it from my bedroom," Hamilton said. " [Gospel music] is part of who I am."

About five years ago, Hamilton expanded that interest by acquiring a gospel music label, naming it Five Oceans.

With two artists on the label, Hamilton lets other people run the operation as he's too busy with FSU basketball to be hanging out in a recording studio.

"It's not a business venture so much as a ministry," said Hamilton. "I enjoy helping people who worship the Lord in song and have a chance to express themselves."

As for the name Five Oceans, he adds: "I wanted my music to touch all parts of the world, and five oceans touch just about every part. The ocean is one of the most consistent phenomenas. The tide comes in and goes out every day. I want my music to be consistent, refreshing in the morning and relaxing in the evening."

More than anything, his musical taste appeals to Hamilton's desire for a soothing, balanced life in a chaotic profession.

"That's his pressure-valve release," said FSU assistant coach Stan Jones. "It allows [Hamilton] to go into another element outside of coaching, recruiting and dealing with university administration. It gives him peace."

It's helped him survive an up-and-down coaching journey over 48 years, which took Hamilton to the high of a national championship as a Kentucky assistant in 1978. But he's also been through the difficult grind of trying to fix struggling programs at Oklahoma State, Miami and FSU, plus a brief failed NBA fling with the Washington Wizards.

Finally, in what figures to be his last coaching chapter, Hamilton has probably done his best work. He survived the tumultuous part of his FSU tenure during the first six years – no NCAA tournament bid, a 37-59 ACC record – and the administration's remarkable patience continues to be rewarded.

FSU has shown no sign of tailing off from its success of the past two seasons, which includes an NCAA run to the 2018 Elite Eight (lost 58-54 to Michigan in the West regional finals) and a second-place ACC finish the preceding year. With the No. 18-ranked Seminoles' 78-73 triumph Saturday over North Carolina State at Donald Tucker Civic Center, it upped their win total to 72 wins over the past three years, the best of any stretch in the program's 71-year history. "Most rebuilding programs have the potential to do what we've become, they just don't get there in two or three years," Hamilton said. "This hasn't been easy. We don't even own the facility we play in and our league has some of the top winningest programs in college basketball."

Despite being in a hoops furnace with the likes of Duke, North Carolina and Syracuse, the Seminoles have survived quite well since the 2008-09 season, going 109-79 in ACC regular-season games, the third-best league mark.

Hamilton's teams have gradually become a national player, going 7-6 in the NCAA tournament over that span and also won the ACC tournament in 2012.

But none of those accomplishments seem to truly excite Hamilton. He talks more like a life coach than a basketball coach. While others measure success by rankings and a March Madness resume, Hamilton always points to player development off the court.

"I have a lot of trophies, awards and rings, but what I enjoy most is attending [player] weddings, getting calls on Father's Day, guys seeking advice on major decisions. Those are the coaching rewards," Hamilton said. "If I only evaluate my success with NCAA trips and Coach of the Year awards, then I can't look at myself in the mirror. If I'm not impacting young men to grow with the tools I've been given, I haven't done my job."

"You're taking people at the most important part of their life – teenagers going into adulthood – and trying to develop not just basketball players, but good husbands, fathers and citizens. That part of the process goes unnoticed."

During his tenure, 61 of 63 players who became seniors have earned degrees. This year's senior class – Phil Cofer, David Nichols, Christ Koumadje, PJ Savoy, and Terrance Mann – are all on track for a diploma. No player on Hamilton's watch has ever been forced to leave the program for disciplinary reasons.

Mann, the 2015 New Hampshire Player of the Year, appreciates Hamilton's approach. With a mother, Daynia La-Force, serving as head coach at the University of Rhode Island, the 6-foot-7 guard sees value in a college experience not incessantly consumed by playing ball and game preparation.

"Coach Ham talks more to us about life than basketball definitely," said Mann. "He'll have a few things to say about the game, about practice. Other than that, it's always about how we should carry ourselves, how we should be careful. He's always telling us stories about student-athletes who were in the same position as us and didn't make it out because they made not-smart decisions. He's always coaching us on life."

Jones has been with Hamilton for 24 seasons, since his boss hired the former Mississippi high school coach to join his Miami Hurricanes staff as a non-recruiting assistant. Jones is now Hamilton's most trusted adviser, having spent more time with him than any working colleague.

While some may see Hamilton's emphasis on cultivating life skills for his players as a public relations/recruiting ploy, Jones insists the boss' nurturing side is a reflection of how he acts behind the scenes.

"From working with him day to day, I can tell you that's a genuine article human being, that's legit," Jones said. "It's not a pat line, bullet point or spin-cycle-give-to-the-media. That is legitimately his soul."

"As good as a basketball coach and mind that he is, he's a better molder of people. He helps you through situations so that you will grow, including the coaching staff. He's more concerned about your well-being after you leave him."

Still, life on the court for Hamilton – a two-time Coach of the Year recipient in both the Big East and ACC -- is pretty good. Unlike many ACC coaches, he kept his job after six mediocre years because the athletic director who hired him, former Alabama basketball player Dave Hart, felt FSU was close enough to a hoops breakthrough to warrant keeping Hamilton.

Ironically, once Hart was forced out by president T.K. Wetherell in 2009, the 'Noles started making significant gains with four consecutive top-4 ACC finishes and an NCAA Sweet 16 appearance in 2011.

"It's not like we ever became totally irrelevant or weren't competitive, we just always seemed to be one win short of making the NCAAs in those early years," said Jones.

That's no longer an issue, and Saturday's tight contest with NC State was further evidence that FSU (23-6, 11-5) should again be a tough out in March. The Wolfpack trailed by single digits virtually the whole game, tied it up 63-63 with under seven minutes left, but Hamilton's team always had an answer in critical moments.

"We've been through the Elite Eight and so many close games," said Mann. "If it's a three-point game with three minutes left and you're going against a team like us, we're very hard to beat because we know how to manage situations very well."

Part of that might well be a reflection of Hamilton. As much as he'd like to get to the Final Four as a head coach, the message to his players is always about winning in life.

Away from the college basketball pressure-cooker, Leonard Hamilton needs the joy that comes from listening to gospel music. Looking at what his team is doing on the court, the Seminoles are also striking the right chord.

Lasting Legacy: Mann's Unselfish Approach Elevates FSU Basketball

By Corey Clark

Warchant

March 5, 2019

He came to Florida State in the same class as two of the most prized recruits in program history.

He was the "other" freshman wing that year. The one not named Bacon or Beasley.

He wasn't a McDonald's All-American, and he won't be an NBA first-round draft pick. But Terance Mann, who will be playing his last game inside the Tucker Center tonight when the No. 14 Seminoles host No. 15 Virginia Tech (7 p.m., ESPN), is leaving a legacy at FSU that far outshines the aforementioned stars from his signing class.

In fact, as his college career winds down, you could make the argument that Mann has been one of the most impactful players to ever wear garnet and gold.

"From the day he committed, he's been a guy that's been trying to make the program better," associate head coach Stan Jones said. "He's a guy that committed before his official visit, and we had not gotten commitments from Malik and Dwayne. And he started reaching out to those guys.

"His communication to them was, 'I don't care what position I play, I want to win, I want to have a good team. Come on, let's do this together.' Which is a rarity in today's generation of basketball players, because most guys have a huge jealousy problem and a huge fear of competition."

Not Terance Mann.

He struck up a friendship with Bacon and Beasley, trying to convince them to come to Tallahassee. Even though that would mean less minutes – and certainly less shots – for him at the start of his career.

In any other year, Mann might have been the jewel of Florida State's recruiting class. He was a four-star prospect and one of the top 100 players in the country. But Bacon was a five-star recruit, and Beasley wasn't far behind.

And Mann was happy to let them have the early hype.

"I mean, I just knew it would take more than just me to change this culture and change the perspective of this being a basketball school," Mann said. "I knew it would have to be a big powerhouse recruiting class, and I kind of saw that at a young age. I don't know how. I just think that's how I was. Just being unselfish, I wanted people to come with me."

Because he wanted to win.

And almost nobody in the history of the FSU men's basketball program has done that more than Terance Mann. Over these last four years, he's been a part of 91 victories. The school record is 95, set by Luke Loucks from 2009 to 2012. Mann has been a three-year starter, and each of those three years the Seminoles have earned a berth in the NCAA Tournament.

The career numbers themselves won't overwhelm you.

He's averaging 11.5 points per game this season, following 12.6 as a junior and 8.4 as a sophomore. But that's not what Mann's game is about anyway.

He's not a high-volume shooter. He just does all the little things -- all over the court, all the time -- that add up to a big difference.

Bacon and Beasley were terrific college players. Certainly better scorers than Mann. They could take over games with their offensive ability.

But Mann is the guy who finds a way to make an impact without taking a ton of shots.

“He can play all five positions,” head coach Leonard Hamilton said. “He can play point guard if you need him to. He makes good decisions with the ball, he’s a good ball-handler, has good floor vision, a good athlete, he rebounds, defends. He’s a natural basketball player.

“I dubbed him the stat-sheet stuffer when he was a freshman.”

That was back when Mann was still mostly in the shadow of his two good friends, Bacon and Beasley.

It was assistant coach Charlton Young who was Mann’s primary recruiter. He was the one who saw pro potential in the son of Rhode Island women’s basketball coach Daynia La-Force and first pointed out the versatile guard/forward to Hamilton on the recruiting trail.

“I remember being on the road, I think it might have been Sacramento at an AAU tournament,” Hamilton said. “And Coach Young brought me over to the court that Terance was playing at and said, ‘Coach, this guy right here is going to be a good player. He’s kind of under the radar. People don’t realize it, but he’s a smart, intelligent player, athletic, and he’s going to get better and better.’

“So, he recognized Terance’s potential way before a lot of people. I trusted his judgement.”

Safe to say it’s worked out for all parties.

More than four years later, Mann is one of only three players in Florida State history to have 1,200 career points, 600 rebounds, 200 assists and 100 steals. The other two? A couple of guys named Doug Edwards and Bob Sura.

But as much as Mann appreciates being mentioned in the same breath as players of that magnitude, the only stat that truly matters to him -- the only stat that has ever mattered to him -- is the one that’s on the scoreboard at the end of a game.

When his career is over, you won’t be able to say Terance Mann was the best player in FSU history. You won’t be able to say he was the best scorer or shooter or passer or rebounder or defender.

But he was really good at all of it. Which is why in a couple of weeks, you might just be able to say that he’s the all-time winningest player in FSU history.

And that would mean more to Mann than anything else.

“I don’t know if it’s right or wrong, but I was just different than a lot of people growing up,” he said. “A lot of other people worry about how much they scored, how many shots they get a game, and I just worry about winning.

“Why would I want to finish with the most points in Florida State history when I could be the winningest player of all time? That would be amazing. To go down as a winner.”

Whether that distinction comes to him or not, Mann is going to go down as one of the most impactful players in school history. A guy who called higher-rated recruits to come join him in Tallahassee. A guy who didn’t care about personal statistics. A guy who helped turn FSU back into a perennial NCAA Tournament participant. A guy who won and won and won some more.

That's Terance Mann.

That's how he'll always be remembered.

That's his legacy.

Notre Dame was able to tie the game but never led after that. The Seminoles have had nine players lead the team in scoring this season. The bench has been critical nearly every night, with Florida State's reserves scoring 31 points against Notre Dame. Trent Forrest made 4 of 6 free-throw attempts in the final minute to help the Seminoles win the game. Christ Koumadje added 12 points, the fourth time in the last five games he has scored in double figures. D.J. Harvey scored 18 points and Prentiss Hubb had 17 for Notre Dame which has dropped four straight games. The Fighting Irish went scoreless for nearly five minutes late in the game and made just one of their final 10 field-goal attempts.

Game 29 -- Florida State 78, NC State 73

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. -- Mfondu Kabengele scored 16 points, Trent Forrest added 11 of his 13 points in the second half and the No. 18 Seminoles defeated NC State 78-73. Forrest was quiet early but drove to the basket with ease in the second half, helping Florida State gain its 23rd win. He shot 5 of 10 from the floor with a team-leading six rebounds, three assists and two steals. The Wolfpack gave the Seminoles some adversity to deal with. While Florida State never trailed, NC State kept clawing back and had a chance to win in the final minute. Devon Daniels blocked Kabengele and Torin Dorn grabbed it with 24 seconds left and the Seminoles leading 76-73. After a timeout, Braxton Beverly dribbled the ball beyond the 3-point arc but was fouled. He missed the front end of a 1-and-1, and Kabengele rebounded. He was quickly fouled, making two free-throw attempts to seal it. M.J. Walker scored 11 of his 15 points in the first half, putting him in double figures for the first time since Feb. 9. Kabengele shot 7 of 8 from the free-throw line while adding five rebounds and four of the Seminoles' season-high nine blocks. It was the 19th time in 29 games he has scored in double figures, with all of them coming as a reserve. The Wolfpack shot just 26.7 percent (8 of 30) in the first half but hit 55.2 percent (16 of 29) in the second half. NC State stayed in the game behind consistent 3-point shooting, making 47.4 percent (9 of 19).

Game 31 -- Florida State 65, Wake Forest 57

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. -- No. 14 Florida State staged a second-half surge -- 18 straight points -- and took a 65-57 victory over Wake Forest. Florida State won for the 12th time in 13 games to finish fourth in conference. The Seminoles never led until grabbing the lead at 47-45 on Trent Forrest's basket with 7:28 left. Phil Cofer followed with an easy basket, then M.J. Walker supplied the knockout with a 3-pointer. The Deacons frequently switched defenses, making it hard for the Seminoles to get the ball inside to 7-foot-4 Christ Koumadje and 6-10 Mfondu Kabengele. Forrest led a balanced FSU attack -- 11 players scored -- with 11 points. Koumadje had 8 points and 10 rebounds. After a cold-shooting first half by both teams, FSU shot 54 percent in the second half. Brandon Childress, who scored three baskets to spark the Deacons to their early 12-point lead, finished with 13 points and Chaundee Brown added 11 -- all in the first half. The Deacons, who shot just 26 percent, went scoreless for nearly six minutes as the Seminoles erased a 45-40 deficit with their 18-0 run. Wake Forest was 16 of 16 from the foul line en route to a 31-24 halftime lead as both teams struggled from the field. But the Deacons made only 6 of 13 from the line in the second half.
