OFF THE TEE

• The ACC Women's Golf Championship begins Thursday, April 14 and concludes Sunday, April 17 at The Reserve Golf Club in Pawleys Island, South Carolina. The format for determining the champion includes three rounds of stroke play on Thursday (two rounds) and Friday (one round) before match play begins on Saturday. The top four teams following stroke play will advance to match play semifinals on Saturday with the finals contested on Sunday.

• Four ACC teams are ranked in the most recent Golfstat Top 25 rankings (April 5). No. 4 Wake Forest leads the way and is followed by No. 8 Virginia, No. 16 Florida State and No. 24 Duke. In the Golfweek/Sagarin rankings (April 8), Wake Forest is No. 5, Virginia is No. 10, Florida State is No. 13 and Duke is No. 23.

• Wake Forest junior Rachel Kuehn is ranked No. 6 by Golfstat and is joined in the top 25 by No. 13 Carolina Chacarra of Wake Forest and No. 19 Amelia Williamson of Florida State.

• Last year, Duke won its 22nd overall ACC women's golf title and first in the new match play format, with a 5-0 victory over Florida State. The Blue Devils' first three golfers jumped out to an early lead on the front nine and never let up to claim the championship at Sedgefield Country Club in Greensboro, North Carolina. Duke's Gina Kim shot three rounds in the 60s, including a final round 69 to capture individual medalist honors. Kim's three-day 10-under par total of 206 is the second-lowest in ACC Championship history and tied the Duke ACC Tournament 54-hole record.

ACC NETWORK COVERAGE

2022 ACC Women's Golf Championship Coverage

The semifinals and finals of the ACC Women's Golf Championship match play will be televised live on ACC Network Extra. Jim Kelly (play-by-play) and Jane Cramer (analyst) will provide the call. A championship recap show will air April 25 at 7 p.m. on ACCN. Owned and operated by ESPN in partnership with the Atlantic Coast Conference, ACC Network (ACCN) and its digital platform ACCNX is a 24/7 national network dedicated to ACC sports that launched on August 22, 2019.

• The ACC had 12 current or former players compete in the prestigious 2022 Augusta National Women's Amateur Championship – Clemson's Savannah Grewel and Ivy Shepherd, Duke's Phoebe Brinker and Erica Shepherd, Florida State's Beatrice Wallin, Virginia's Beth Lillie and Amanda Sambach, Virginia Tech's Emily Mahar and Wake Forest's Carolina Chacarra, Rachel Kuehn, Emilia Migliaccio, Lauren Walsh. Wallin finished fourth and Kuehn was seventh.

• ACC golfers have won two of the seven LPGA Tour tournaments this calendar year. Former Wake Forest standout Jennifer Kupcho captured The Chevron Championship last weekend in Rancho Mirage, California, for her first career victory. In February, former Duke golfer Leona Maguire won her first career LPGA Tour event at the Drive On Championship in Fort Myers, Florida.

2021-22 ACC GOLFERS OF THE MONTH

September 2021 - Erica Shepherd, Duke & Krista Junkkari, North Carolina

October 2021 - Emily Mahar, Virginia Tech & Rachel Kuehn, Wake Forest

February 2022 - Amelia Williamson, Florida State & Wake Forest's Carolina Chacarra

March 2022 - Rachel Kuehn, Wake Forest

MARCH GOLFER OF THE MONTH

Wake Forest junior Rachel Kuehn was named the ACC Women's Golfer of the Month for March. A native of Asheville, North Carolina, Kuehn won her second individual title of the year and fourth of her career at the Northrop Grumman Regional Challenge. Her tournament score of 10-under-par 203 tied her career-low and is the fourth-lowest 54-hole score in program history. The win also earned her an LPGA exemption into the JTBC Championship at Palos Verdes at the end of April. She recorded her fifth top 10 finish of the year at the Liz Murphey Collegiate. Kuehn is the ACC's top ranked women's golfer in the country at No. 6 by Golfstat.

FEBRUARY GOLFER OF THE MONTH

Florida State's Amelia Williamson and Wake Forest's Carolina Chacarra were the ACC Co-Women's Golfers of the Month for February. A senior from Norfolk, England, Williamson earned her first career individual victory at the Florida State Match Up with a 7-under par total of 209. She was one of just two players to shoot under par in the tournament with rounds of 70, 68 and 71 on the Seminole Legacy course. A week prior at the Moon Invitational, Williamson helped lead Florida State to the team title with a ninth-place finish (3-under par, 213). Five of her six rounds in February were under par.

Chacarra, a freshman from Madrid, Spain, claimed individual medalist honors while leading Wake Forest to the UCF Challenge title against a field that included nine ranked teams. She fired a 19-under par 197 and finished with the lowest 54-hole score in relation to par in Wake Forest program history and tied the second-lowest score in relation to par in NCAA history. Chacarra claimed the individual title by four strokes and recorded 18 birdies over 54 holes, the second-most in the field.

OCTOBER GOLFER OF THE MONTH

Virginia Tech's Emily Mahar and Wake Forest's Rachel Kuehn were the ACC Co-Women's Golfers of the Month for October. Mahar had an exceptional month for the Hokies on the links, finishing in the top eight in two tournaments. All six of her rounds in October were par-or-better, including a season-low-tying 68 in her last round of the fall slate. At the Ruth's Chris Tar Heel Invitational, Mahar was one of two Hokies to finish in the top eight of the individual leaderboard and finish in red figures for the 54-hole event. Behind Mahar's strong play, Virginia Tech had its best showing of the fall, carding a 5-under 859 to place third as a team. Two weeks later at the Landfall Tradition, Mahar finished in the red yet again, this time with a shot at the individual title. The Brisbane, Australia native carded six birdies during her first nine holes of Sunday's final round to finish second.

Kuehn won the Tar Heel Invitational at 11-under 205 (70-63-72), which tied the third-lowest total in tournament history. The junior from Asheville, North Carolina, set the women's course record, Wake Forest's 18-hole record and the tournament single-round record on Saturday with a bogey-free, 9-under-par 63. At the Landfall Tradition, she fired a final round 69 to tie for 12th.

SEPTEMBER GOLFER OF THE MONTH

Duke's Erica Shepherd and North Carolina's Krista Junkkari were the ACC Co-Women's Golfers of the Month for September. Against one of the top fields in the nation, Shepherd totaled rounds of 68, 72 and 70 over three days in the ANNIKA Intercollegiate on her way to carding a fourth-place finish. A native of Greenwood, Indiana, Shepherd helped lead Duke to a second-place finish with a 7-under score. It was the second top-5 finish of her career and the 54-hole total of 210 was one shy of a career low. She turned in three under-par rounds and finished with a 6-under score overall.

In finishing second at the Cougar Classic, Junkkari tied UNC records for total strokes (204) and score to par (-12) with Kelly Whaley, who set both marks in 2017 at the Briar's Creek Invitational. The Elimäki, Finland, native set the 18-hole UNC scoring record in round one with a 7-under 65 and followed that with a second-round 67 to set the 36-hole record at 132. She made 15 birdies and three bogeys over the three rounds. Her runner-up finish is the best by a Tar Heel since Whaley won at Briar's Creek in 2017.
